TO AUTHORIZE CHANGES IN CERTAIN RESOLUTION

Mr. Jefferson offered the following resolution:

Whereas, On September 17, 1934, the House of Representatives finally adopted House Simple Resolution No. 12, providing for the appointment by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, of a committee to investigate fishing conditions and other matters relating to the present system of taxation on marine products; and

Whereas, Since the passage and adoption of said resolution, it appears that the last resolving clause thereof should be clarified in regard to the expenditures to be allotted said committee, and that the same should specifically provide for only traveling expenses, hotel expenses, meals, and other necessary express expenses; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the last resolving clause or paragraph of the said resolution be amended and changed so as to read as follows, which provision shall take the place of the last said paragraph, and shall be a supplement to all other provisions of the said resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee hereby created be limited in expenses not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500), which shall include hotel, telegraph, telephone, postage, and other expenses necessarily incurred in the discharge of their duties. In addition to such expenses, all necessary traveling expenses shall be allowed members of the Committee.

The Committee shall be authorized and empowered to employ such clerical and other assistance and to purchase such stationery and other supplies as may be necessary in the discharge of their duties, and the Committee shall have access and use to all facilities of the State Game, Fish, and Oyster Commission, including the records thereof, in conducting such investigation.

All expenses of the Committee herein created shall be paid out of the Contingent Fund of the House of Representatives of the Forty-third Legislature, including publication of copies of the Committee report and the distribution of same to the Members of the Legislature.

Provided further, That all expenditures of such Committee shall be made upon the sworn accounts of the persons entitled to such pay, and approved by the chairman or vice-chairman and secretary of the Committee, all three said officers to be elected at the first meeting of the Committee. The secretary shall file with the State Comptroller of Public Accounts a statement showing in detail all expenditures made by such Committee, and the amounts and to whom all payments were made.

JEFFERSON ET AL.

The resolution was read second time.

On motion of Mr. Reed of Bowie, further consideration of the resolution was postponed until tomorrow.

REQUESTING FEDERAL RELIEF AGENCY TO CO-OPERATE WITH TEXAS RELIEF AGENCY

Mr. Long offered the following resolution:

H. C. R. No. 16, Requesting Federal Relief Agency to co-operate with Texas Relief Agency.

Whereas, The Legislature of the State of Texas is now in session, called for the purpose of issuing more relief bonds; and

Whereas, It is the desire and duty of this Legislature to cause the money appropriated for relief purposes to be expended judiciously and economically; and

Whereas, It is the opinion of representatives of the relief agency of this State that Federal rules, regulations, and standards set up by the Federal Relief Administration seriously hamper and hinder the sensible and economical administration of relief and expenditure of relief funds in Texas; and

Whereas, The agricultural, ranching and industrial conditions in Texas

are vastly different from conditions existing in the industrial east and other sections of the United States, and the problems of giving relief in the several sections of Texas are vastly different and the relief rules and regulations should be flexible, so as to meet conditions in this State; and

Whereas, The administration of relief in Texas under Federal rules and regulation has resulted in enticing and inviting tenant farmers and others living in rural communities to the larger towns and cities of the State, and has caused many of them to go to such urban communities for the purpose of securing a living as recipients of State and Federal relief; and

Whereas, Wages required by Federal regulations to be paid for relief labor exceed wages paid in Texas by private industry for similar work, and this results in the stifling of private enterprise and often prevents private industry, farmers, ranchers, and others, desiring household help, from employing labor which would be employed if such labor could be secured at the usual and customary rate of pay; and

Whereas, It is common knowledge in every section of this State that large numbers of those placed upon the relief rolls are refusing work offered them fearing that they may encounter some difficulty of again being placed upon relief rolls and the belief has become widespread in this State that the administration of relief, under Federal rules and regulations, actually results in bringing onto the relief rolls thousands who would otherwise depend upon their own resources for livelihood; and

Whereas, The structure of the relief organization in this State has become more and more complicated until the amount of records, bookkeeping, auditing, engineering, and red tape have grown to proportions resulting in enormous administrative costs, and the entire relief set-up should be scaled down and made smaller and more simple in its operations, with Federal co-operation; and

Whereas, These and other conditions have resulted in widespread criticism of relief administration and that should be corrected in order to restore the confidence of the people in their Government and in order that the agricultural, ranching, and industrial interests of this State may be permitted to expand and to operate efficiently, and in order that relief funds may be administered economically and prudently, and that recipients of work relief may be paid an honest day's wage for an honest day's work, and may thereby retain their self-respect; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That the President of the United States be requested to direct the Federal Relief Agency to co-operate with the Texas Relief Agency, in order that regulations may be drawn which would be applicable to the conditions existing in Texas, so that the above condition can be corrected; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the United States.

The resolution was read second time, and was adopted.

PRESENTATION OF PORTRAITS OF HON. J. L. GOODMAN AND
HON. F. C. WEINERT

Mr. Mathis, on behalf of the Members of the House, presented Speaker Stevenson with portraits of Hon. J. L. Goodman and Hon. F. C. Weinert, and had read the following, which, on motion of Mr. Griffith, was ordered printed in the Journal:

Judge J. L. Goodman, Franklin, Texas

Judge J. L. Goodman was born near the town of Blakley, in Early County, Georgia, on March 26, 1852. During his childhood his parents moved to East Alabama and in 1858 they removed to Clark County, Alabama, in the southwestern portion of that State, where he resided until he came to Texas in 1881.

On December 19, 1878, he married Miss Carrie Lou Wheelless. To this union were born twelve children, six sons and six daughters, ten of whom are now living. His wife died in 1926.

As a boy he was a witness to, and participated in, the hardships and privations of the Civil War, and fully understands and remembers the awful conditions that prevailed in that section during said war. During the years of 1862, 1863 and 1864, his principal occupation was that of a spinner, spinning cotton thread to aid in supplying clothes for the family.

His education was such only, as could be provided by little settlement or private schools. From his early boyhood he took an active part in politics as a full-fledged Southern Democrat and has remained an ardent supporter of that Party and its principles until this date. He cast his first vote, notwithstanding a little short of twenty-one years of age, for Horace Greeley in 1872.

Judge Goodman was elected justice of peace for his precinct in Clark County, Alabama, in 1878, and served until he moved to Texas, in January, 1881, settling at Franklin, Texas, and has resided there since that date.

In 1890 he was elected to the State Legislature (over a negro opponent) under the political battle cry of Hogg and the Commission. At the historic Democratic Convention of Texas held in Houston in 1892, referred to as the Car Stable Convention, at which Governor Hogg was nominated for reelection, he was selected as a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee and served through that stormy campaign and until 1894. During all the years he resided in Texas he has taken an active part in all the great political campaigns in the State and in the county and districts in which he resided.

In 1906 his name was placed on the Democratic ticket for Representative of his county by his numerous friends. He was elected and re-elected in 1908 and took an active part in most important legislation in the Thirtieth and Thirty-first Legislatures of Texas. In his first service in 1891 and 1892 he rendered service in the passage of most important legislation of that time, among which was the Railroad Commission Bill; what is known as the Stock and Bond Law; the Alien Land Law and Separate Coach Law, separating the white and negro passengers on railroad trains, all of which has proven to be of great value to the State and its people.

In 1912 he was elected County Judge of Robertson County and was re-elected in 1914; and in 1920, the then county judge having resigned, he was selected by the commissioners court to serve out the unexpired term as county judge. His management of the county affairs was highly appreciated by the citizens of the county.

In 1930, upon petition of numerous citizens of the county, his name was placed on the Democratic ballot again for the position of Representative of Robertson County, and he was elected. He was re-elected in 1932. His course in the Legislature during these two terms was highly satisfactory to those having the best interests of their county at heart.

Judge Goodman entered the practice of law in his home county in the early nineties, and when not engaged in official capacity has practiced his profession continuously from that date, during which time he has been connected with a large portion of the most important litigation within the courts of his county.

Judge Goodman, while more than eighty-two years of age, is still strong and vigorous and will continue in the practice of his chosen profession in the future as he has been in the past.

F. C. Weinert, Seguin, Texas

F. C. Weinert was born in New Braunfels, Comal County, Texas, on July 14, 1853. He moved to Guadalupe County in 1870, where he engaged in farming and stock raising.

On December 1, 1877, he married Miss Clara M. Bading, also a native Texan. To this union were born seven children, four boys and three girls.

Since boyhood Weinert has taken an active part in public affairs, both local and general. He is an active Southern Democrat and has been so known since his youth. In 1874, during the spirited election between E. J. Davis and Richard Coke, Weinert, at the invitation of leading Democrats of his section, such as General Saffold, General Jefferson, John Ireland, and others, became active in his section and aided in ridding the State of its enemies by electing Richard Coke as Governor of Texas.

Weinert was elected Justice of Peace of Precinct No. 4 of Guadalupe County, at the age of twenty-two. Later he was elected County Commissioner of District One, and after that, County Judge of Guadalupe County, in which capacity he served for a series of years.

In 1892, he was elected on the Hogg ticket as a member of the Twenty-third Legislature. In 1906, he was elected Senator, and he was re-elected in 1910, in which capacity he served until he was appointed Secretary of State by Governor Colquitt. After resigning from this position, Weinert was appointed, on suggestion of Col. Shep. Williams, to the office of Commissioner of Markets and Warehouses. He was later re-appointed to this position by Governor Jim Ferguson, and later by Governor Hobby. He held this position until the close of the World War.

During Governor Moody's term of office, 1927-1930, Weinert was appointed State Tax Commissioner of Texas. In 1930, Weinert was elected to the Forty-second Legislature, and in 1932, he was elected to the Forty-third Legislature.

During the Twenty-eighth Legislature, Weinert and Capt. A. Slick of Gonzales became the sponsors of the law creating the Pasteur Institute, which has proven such a blessing to the State. To pass the bill, the Institution was attached to the State Lunatic Asylum, and the bill became a law without the signature of the Governor. More than 1,400 specimens and patients have been treated by said Institute, and 22 per cent have shown hydrophobia infection. The Institute is now independent and is operated under the State Health Department.

Weinert, while Senator, became the author of what is commonly known as the Suspended Sentence Law, owing to which thousands of young offenders have been saved from becoming actual criminals.

As Tax Commissioner, Weinert, in his official report made a number of important suggestions and recommendations for changes in the tax system. A number of these were enacted into law by the Forty-second and Forty-third Legislatures, to the benefit of the suffering taxpayers of our State.

Weinert recommended the following:

1. Exemption of an humble home from State ad valorem tax.
2. Authorization of public indebtedness by those only whose property is pledged and who have the debt to pay.
3. Endorsing the principle of the Intangible Asset Law, as enacted in 1906, and its application generally.
4. Reimbursement of county and local road districts for money expended on public highways.
5. Classification of property for taxation purposes.
6. Assessment of property owners, as our Constitution intended, for property owned and not owed.

On motion of Mr. Moore, the following remarks of Mr. Mathis, in making the presentation, were ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. Speaker and Fellow Members of the House: A few weeks ago this House passed a resolution unanimously to have pictures made of the Honorable F. C. Weinert and the Honorable J. L. Goodman, said pictures to be placed upon the walls of this House, and I have been designated by this House to at this time present these pictures, but before doing so I want the Clerk to read the short biographies of these distinguished men.

After the reading of these biographies by the Clerk, Mr. Mathis spoke as follows:

The duty imposed upon me, I assure you, is greatly welcomed by me. More than forty years ago, Honorable J. L. Goodman was a Member of this House. At that time I was an humble committee clerk. I met him then, and since that time I have followed his career as a citizen, as a jurist, and as a legislator. As a citizen, he embodied all the elements of honesty, integrity and fair-dealing. As a judge, he was eminently fair and just. As a legislator, his name has been linked with many of the important laws that are now upon the statute books of Texas. He has been elected many times from his own county to represent his people in this body. With zeal and fidelity he accepted their commission to represent them, and when his terms were over he carried back their commission without blemish and without stain. Honored, revered, and loved by not only his home people but admired and respected by his associates in the Legislature during the whole period in which he served. Always faithful and honest in his dealings with his fellowman and with his brother legislators.

For nearly one-half hundred years I have been intimate and closely associated with Senator Ferdinand C. Weinert. During all of these years I have kept in close touch with him. He began his career in early life as a justice of the peace and from that time on forged his way up the ladder, having represented his county many times in the House of Representatives and in the Senate of Texas and in other high official positions, and at all times and under all circumstances he has proven himself from early manhood to ripe old age a man of the people and for the people. It would take too long in this address to account the many things that has happened during the lifetime of this grand old man. Suffice it to say that he has been ever and at all times faithful, earnest and honest in his efforts to represent the people of his district. In my judgment no man stands higher in the estimation of the people than does this man.

Many times we follow the bier of our loved ones to the cemetery and there place mountains of flowers upon the new-made graves. We hear funeral orations over their dead bodies and this is all right, but I think it is befitting that the House of Representatives, to which these two men belong, pay a tribute to them while they yet live. Both of these men are now past four score years of age. Their faces are set towards the setting of the sun of life. I am glad that we are able now at this hour, while they have eyes to see and ears to hear the kind things that are being said of and concerning them. In these days and times there is abroad in the land rumors of lobbyists corrupting Members of the Legislature. No man can truthfully say that either of these men have ever yielded to wine, women, or song. That they and each of them had a duty to perform and throughout the years that they served Texas they did it with a fidelity which challenges the best in man. By reason of their extreme age the death angel will soon come perhaps to kiss their eyelids down to eternal sleep, and we are today placing upon the walls of this Legislative Hall the pictures of these two great old men in order that future generations may look upon them and hear of their virtues and their religious fidelity to duty and in that way stimulate them to emulate their example.

Ferdinand C. Weinert—Jacob L. Goodman, the membership of this House today is not paying this deserved tribute to you by reason of your ages, but by reason of services performed. Each of your names have been embellished upon the statute books of Texas in the placing therein of wholesome laws for the betterment of mankind. As long as the statutes of Texas remain as the laws of Texas, your names will be remembered as two stalwart men who always fought for right because it was right and your deeds will live long after you are dead and gone.

Mr. Speaker: I am commissioned by this Legislature and by every Member thereof to present to you as Speaker of this House these two photographs and to ask that they be placed upon the walls of this House showing, first, our affectionate regard for these two men, and second, that it is a tribute due to two faithful public servants. They will retire from official life in January with the plaudit of well done, thy good and faithful servants, you have performed every duty imposed upon you by the people of this State and your district.

Mr. Speaker, I present these pictures to you with the love, affection, and respect of every Member of this House towards our distinguished brothers.

Speaker Stevenson addressed the House, and accepted the portraits on behalf of the Members of the House.

(Mr. Morse in the Chair.)

On motion of Mr. Leonard, the remarks of Mr. Stevenson, in accepting the portraits, were ordered printed in the Journal.

Note.—Remarks by Mr. Stevenson on this occasion were not available.
